Maple syrup is a syrup usually made from the xylem sap of sugar maple, red maple, or black maple trees, although it can also be made from other maple species. In cold climates, these trees store starch in their trunks and roots before winter; the starch is then converted to sugar that rises in the sap in late winter and early spring. Maple trees are tapped by drilling holes into their trunks ...

Cease "no. Significant decline is what I expect. This Bakken shale play is too complex to safely predict black and white answers. For example, while drilling in remote locations would generally tend to be non-profitable (if the only change was in the price of oil), there are already predictions of significant drops in the cost of drilling Bakken wells (as fewer drilling and service ...
