Strategic human resource management

From Fig. 1, it could be seen that, whereas other management accounting techniques lay more emphasis on cost reduction, management and control, performance evaluation and product management, SMA emphasizes majorly on strategic positioning. SMA combines information on customers, competitors and the market, which enables a firm to gain competitive advantage and increase its market share.

Resilient organizations thrive despite experiencing conditions that are surprising, uncertain, often adverse, and usually unstable. We propose that an organization's capacity for resilience is developed through strategically managing human resources to create competencies among core employees, that when aggregated at the organizational level, make it possible for organizations to achieve the ...

Systems theory has long been concerned with the study of complex systems (in recent times, complexity theory and complex systems have also been used as names of the field). These systems are present in the research of a variety of disciplines, including biology, economics, social studies and technology. Recently, complexity has become a natural domain of interest of real world socio-cognitive ...

A Resource-based View of the Firm 173 If the production of a resource itself or of one of its critical inputs is controlled by a monopolistic group, it will, ceteris paribus, diminish the returns available to the users of the resource. A patent holder, for example, appropriates part of the profits of his licence holders.

A two-sided market, also called a two-sided network, is an intermediary economic platform having two distinct user groups that provide each other with network benefits. The organization that creates value primarily by enabling direct interactions between two (or more) distinct types of affiliated customers is called a multi-sided platform (MSP).. Two-sided networks can be found in many ...

Box and Cox (1964) developed the transformation. Estimation of any Box-Cox parameters is by maximum likelihood. Box and Cox (1964) offered an example in which the data had the form of survival times but the underlying biological structure was of hazard rates, and the transformation identified this.
