Emotional isolation is a state of isolation where one may have a well-functioning social network but still feels emotionally separated from others.. Population-based research indicates that one in five middle-aged and elderly men (50-80 years) in Sweden are emotionally isolated (defined as having no one in whom to confide). Of those who do have someone in whom they can confide, eight out of ...

Play is essential to development because it contributes to the cognitive, physical, social, and emotional well-being of children and youth. Play also offers an ideal opportunity for parents to engage fully with their children. Despite the benefits derived from play for both children and parents, time for free play has been markedly reduced for some children.
