Science communication is the public communication of science-related topics to non-experts. This often involves professional scientists (called "outreach" or "popularization"), but has also evolved into a professional field in its own right. It includes science exhibitions, journalism, policy or media production. Science communication also includes communication between scientists (for instance ...

In 1968, West Churchman wrote, "there is a good deal of turmoil about the manner in which our society is run. The citizen has begun to suspect that the people who make major decisions that affect our lives don't know what they are doing." [1] Churchman was writing at a time of growing concern about war, civil rights, and the environment.
