4/Aristotle archers who have a mark to aim at, be more likely to hit upon what is right? If so, we must try, in outline at least, to determine what it is, and of which of the sciences or capacities it is the object. It would seem to belong to the most authoritative art and that which is most truly the master art.

Lessons From History: Aristotle and winning bids made by pathos (emotion) alone. Excellent use of logos is generally used to support the pathos. Emotional connections are established and they are then underpinned by rationale and logic. The use of good logical arguments allows the reader to rationalise the emotional investment they have

Lessons From History: What Aristotle can tell us about

An assumption is an unstated opinion that is part of the argument. Nearly all arguments contain assumptions. Part of the process of critical reading must be uncovering assumption. A belief (religious, moral, cultural, ethical) is not an argument. Neither are personal likes or dislikes. These cannot be argued and should not be considered part of argument.
